

Method of Interpretation	Definitions
In-Person	Generally, “In-Person” is when the interpreter is in the courtroom. Note: This includes situations where the interpreter is in the courtroom and the litigant or defendant is offsite (e.g., appearing from a jail). This also includes situations where the interpreter is in the courtroom and parties/witnesses are appearing via an audiovisual delivery system (e.g., Zoom) or by telephone.
Remote	Remote is when the interpreter is outside of the courtroom and is rendering interpreting services by means of an audiovisual delivery Note: This includes all audiovisual delivery situations where the interpreter is outside the courtroom, including the following: at home, in the courthouse in a different room, in a different courthouse building or location within the same county, or performing a remote assignment for another county or another region. In addition, this may include situations where the interpreter is offsite and only the audio feature is used for interpreting services via an audiovisual delivery system.
Telephonic	The interpreter is outside the courtroom and is using telephone equipment only (such as a cell phone, land line, or speaker phone). Note: This category is for the use of telephone (audio) only. This includes situations where the interpreter is outside the courtroom and is providing interpretation to the LEP by telephone only.